You choose life, choose a job, choose a career, choose a family, choose a big television, choose washing machines, cars, compact disc players and electrical tin openers. Choose good health, low cholesterol, and dental insurance. Choose fixed interest mortgage payments, choose a starter home. Choose your friends. Choose leisure wear and matching luggage. Choose a three piece suite on hire purchase in that range of fabric. Choose DIY and wonder who the you are on a Sunday morning. Choose sitting on that couch watching brain numbing, spirit crushing game shows stuffing junk food into your mouth. Choose rotting away in the end of it all, pissing your last in a miserable home nothing more than an embarrassment to the selfish up brats that you spawned to replace yourself. Choose your future, choose life.

Principal's Message Yearbook

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams".
Eleanor Roosevelt

What a great year at Vic High! Our new computer lab with multiple Internet access is operational, our athletic and drama groups have won major awards and our students continue to do well academically.

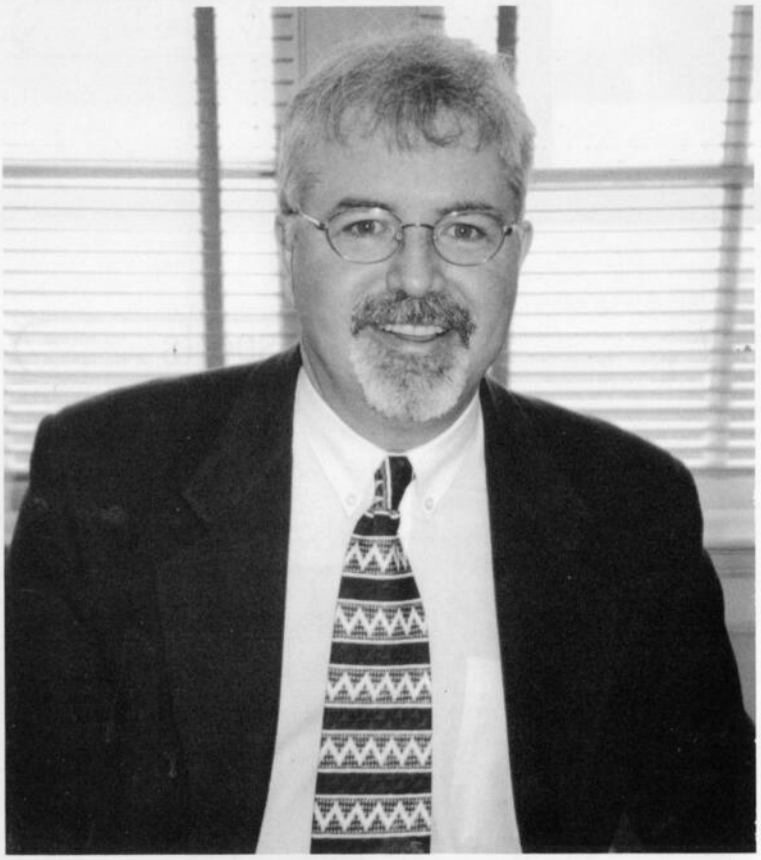
What impresses me most about Vic High is the acceptance and tolerance we show each other. This is an incredible strength that we should all be proud of.

I want to congratulate our yearbook staff. These student work extremely hard behind the scenes. It is through their efforts that our memories will never be forgotten.

Good luck and congratulations to our grads. Remember that Vic High will always be your school.

Kind regards

Denis Harrigan



history?

As British Columbia's first Secondary school, Victoria High School rightfully claims a special honor. Few institutions in Canada can celebrate over 120 years of continuous successful history. A wealth of recorded history echoes and verberates in the life of rewards, smiles of our current student body. Palma non sine pulvere: no reward without effort, rings clear in our minds.

Our diverse population is recognized in this volume and celebrates the wisdom and beauty contained in this visual record of 1996 -1997, our yearbook. This vision, scholarship, and integrity of our predecessors has been continued in work of David Reimer. The memories that have embedded themselves within this building - framed themselves in the brick and stone - can be released to celebrate with us. (ghosts)

Our year of 1996-1997, our contribution of one year to a continuous history of 120 years, has imposed it's stamp through the tangible evidence of our achievements. With positive social values, successes, rewards, and efforts to show the strength and will of Vic High our attendance is incredible. Both change and continuity reverberate within these walls, in all our areas of accomplishment, everyone can be proud of our contribution to this grand old school.

In a young society like Western Canada, it is significant event when any institution completes 121 years of continuous history. Founded in 1876, Victoria High School is old.

A visual record of all our areas of accomplishment is contained in this volume. Unfortunately, space and publication deadlines have hidden some tangible results, but never their memories. Special thoughts, final farewells - memories. An eternity that can be captured in a smile, in a photograph, in a frozen moment forever.

Lorain Hayton

1960
←1997

The retirement of Loraine Hayton from Vic High will be a tremendous loss to this great school. It continues to be a wonderful place to learn because of the staff and students who work there, and no one has been as vital to it's successes and achievements since 1960 as Loraine Hayton.

She graduated from Vic High's Business Education department and that year came downstairs to join the office staff, where she has worked with tens of thousands of students, teachers, parents, principals, support staff and vice principals. Every one of us received her best, and Loraine's best is exceptional. Her knowledge, insight, problem solving ability and dedication have made her an individual colleague and friend.

In my five years as a principal I can recall a myriad of instances where her advice and expertise helped me more than I can detail in this limited space. However, I trust that the following might exemplify her contribution to the school.

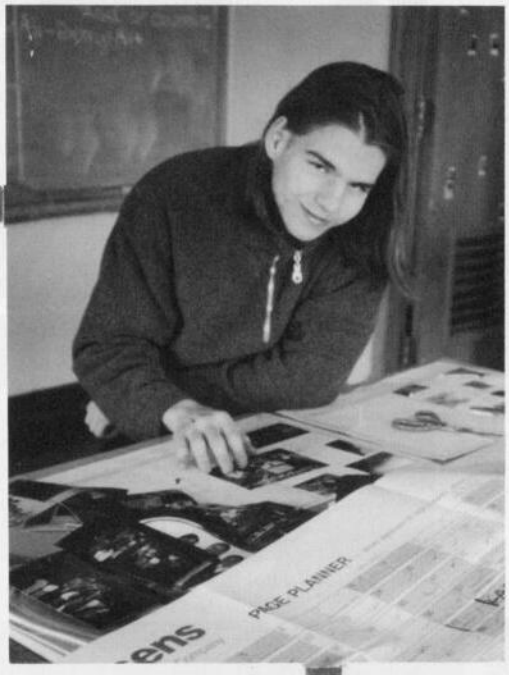
Lorain took, and I use the word advisedly, responsibility for submitting to the Ministry of Education all Grade 12 final marks. In a school of some 900 students checking the computer screens, imputing the data, and ensuring accuracy is a daunting and time consuming task. Upon coming into the school at the end of July, I opened a letter explaining that a host of mistakes had been made across the province, and the attached sheet would inform me as to the number, and names, of students whose information had to be corrected; the attachment indicated all Vic High information was correct, that there was not one error in the school's submission of final grades.

Loraine's devotion to ice-skating was the source of much office laughter. The staff knew that her holidays would be timed to coincide with the Canadian or World Championships

Loraine and Dale will now have all the time they need to follow figure skating, work on their farm in Cobble Hill, and travel wherever they want to go.

Thanks, Loraine, from all of us; you have been great for, and to, Vic High.

yearbook staff



This years yearbook has been a struggle to work on and complete. Partially because of the vast majority of its members are grads this year and had prior commitments . The yearbook committee consisted of a group of about ten very hard working, and committed students as well as our two teacher sponsors Mr. Denby and Mr. Forester. These people dedicated themselves to a long and tiring job for the benefit of their fellow peers as well as themselves. Thanks to them there is a yearbook for 1997. We would also like to take a moment to appreciate the teachers in Fairy Tech that provided us with a room to use as well as a friendly face. A huge thanks goes out to Robin Steffanick for all the pictures he took. It was appreciated how quickly writeups were handed in for sports teams, clubs, and grad writeups. Our cover was provided by Russel Green, which shows how colorful and assorted our school is; THANKS.

Students Council

Our Students council definitely had a slow start this year, but by the end of term one we had a good idea of what we wanted to do. We had a lot of successful activities, including the first successful dance at Vic High in three years! I'd like to thank our four very supportive staff sponsors Mr. Davis, Ms. Harrison, Mr. Stevenson, and Mrs. Thompson for keeping us under control at our meetings. I'd also like to thank the rest of the Vic. High staff for all their support and help with our crazy undertakings this year. Now for my sappy ending:

Thank you to all the Vic High students for making my year as president a memorable one! Thanks to my awesome council and to my vice Simon for all the back-up! Good luck to the next year's council. I'll miss everyone next year. A quote to send you on your way:

"He has walked a long road and now stands at the top of the hill. A traveler would sit down and admire the view, but a man of destiny knows that beyond this hiss lies another and another. The journey is never completed."

COUNSELLORS

Peer Counsellors are trained for this work by attending a summer workshop where they learn interpersonal communication skills. These students are available throughout the day to assist any student or teacher find a solution to a problem. They also do volunteer work in their choice of many community agencies.

Peer Tutors receive instruction in learning styles, learning strategies and communication skills. Under the guidance of the Learning Assistance teacher they help their peers with academic problems, time management and/or organization skills.

GRad

In the words of one sponsor this year's Grad Committee was, 'the most energetic, enterprising and fun group I have had the pleasure of working with.' The committee worked closely with the Students' Council to promote school spirit and make our final year one to remember. Thanks to sponsors Ms Costain, Ms Falls, Ms Harrison and Ms Mc Curdy.

Through the coordination and support from the sponsors of the SKY Club this year, Mrs. Blazkow, Mrs. Starr, and Mrs. Mckay, the members devoted much of their time and effort to interact with the elderly in our community. Our twenty dedicated members showed their enthusiasm and positive attitude toward their involvement with the residents at the local Kiwanis Pavilion. As the precious time went by, we developed a caring relationship with the residents during a variety of occasions. With the help of our camera-man, Mr. Steffanick, the enjoyable moments have become a part of our priceless memories collected in the 1997 SKY Club Scrapbook. In addition, we had the opportunity to participate in the annual SKY Club Conference held in Seattle this year, where we shared our valuable experiences with the other SKY Club members from around North America.

Our memorable experiences throughout the year have enriched our knowledge and have provided worthy insight towards our maturity in understanding the value of people who contribute to our society.

A special thanks to those who made the SKY Club such a success this year!

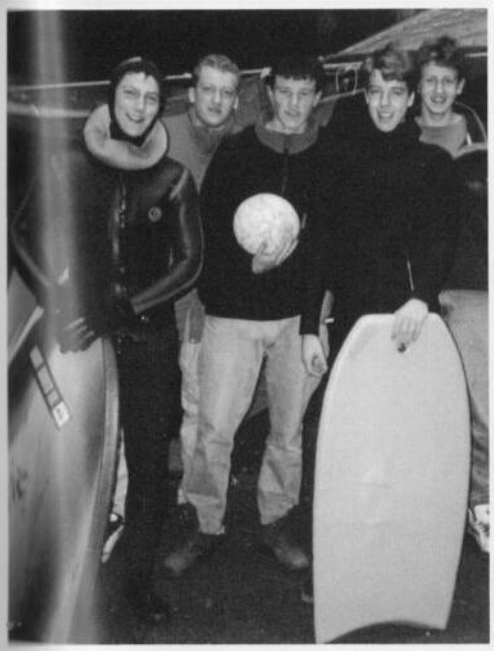
THE ADVENTURES OF THE OUTDOORS CLUB



During 1996-1997 our outdoor enthusiasts continued to seek out the outer most reaches of Vancouver Island. Cape Beale, Raft Cove, Pacific Rim Park, and Hornby Island continue to be a short list of our favorite destinations. The extreme climatic conditions made our trips even more challenging. On many trips the rewards of breathtaking beauty were balanced against surviving snow, storm to hurricane force winds, and unpredictably high water levels. All of nature's challenges were met and enjoyed by this always willing group. Surfing in ocean swells, exploring the hidden depths of sepulchered sea caves, establishing and surviving around our wilderness soaked base camps, and just getting their and back when roadways sometimes suddenly disappeared before our timeless Centennial Bus made every moment of every trip extra exciting. Each participant found that special memory of that special place with that special friend.

Congratulations to Club members Alison Young and Kim (Cormack) Reeve who were selected to participate in the joint Canadian/American Student Conservation Association program over the summer of 1996. And our special thanks to sponsor Robin Steffanick who continues to take us to those special secret places where land, water, and sky gently soothe the seasons.

Halloween FREE Style

Do you remember those crazy times back in the day... spooky ghouls, skeletons and jack'o lanterns? Today they roamed the halls of Vic High. Screams echoed through out the baby blue walls, tears were shed and somebody even one a prize or two. Halloween was a great day.

FiNE

Vic High's annual Fine Arts evening was held on Dec. 11. The highlight of this years show was a two hundred voice choir composed of Vic High choir students and teachers, the Newcombe Singers and The Victoria Choral Society. Members of the Victoria Symphony accompanied them along with the Vic High concert band. Their wonderful sound filled the auditorium and set a festive tone to the evening. Layla Casper and Jo Jo Zolina did two dance numbers and the Vic High Players did their show on violence, WATCH YOUR STEP. Art students displayed their work and provided refreshments for the five hundred people who attended. The Rhythm and Blues band rounded out the evening with their fabulous beat.

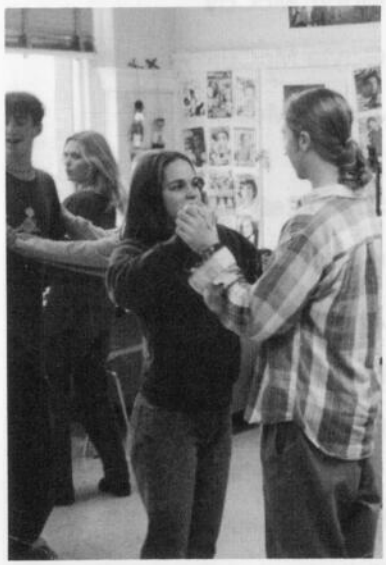
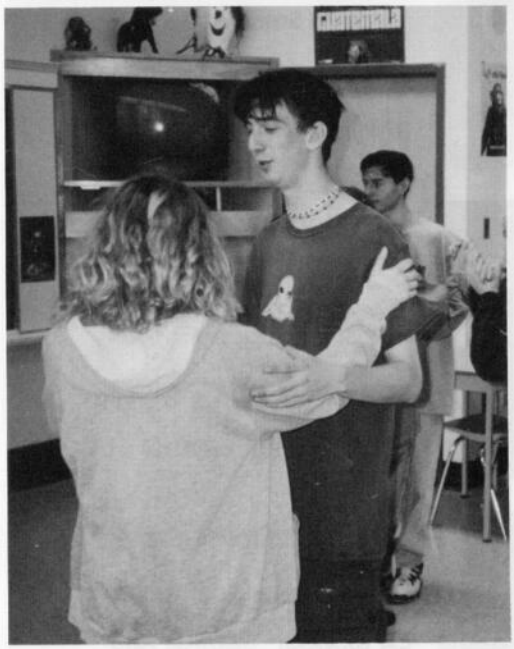
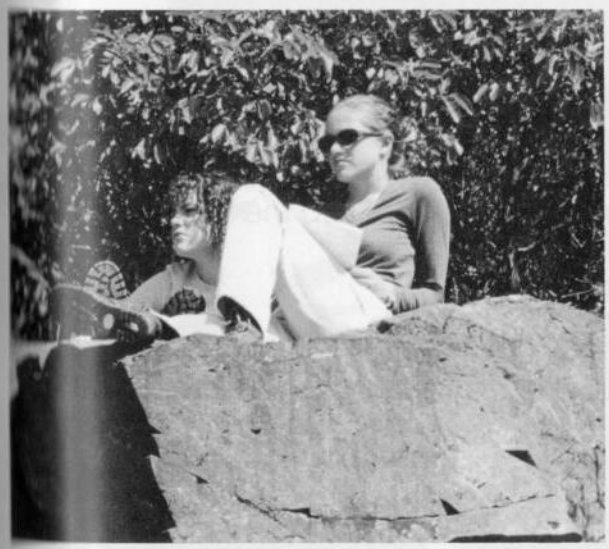
¡Español!





The students in Vic High Spanish classe munch on nachos, dance, sing, and beat up on innocent pinatas. Why can't we do this in math?

English Class



Mr. Twohig Enriched class took a break from MacBeth's troubled life to visit historical Leper Island. Inspired by the scenery, they wrote about lepers who were exiled to the island years ago. Mr. Twohig's class also attended several plays at the Belfry theatre.*

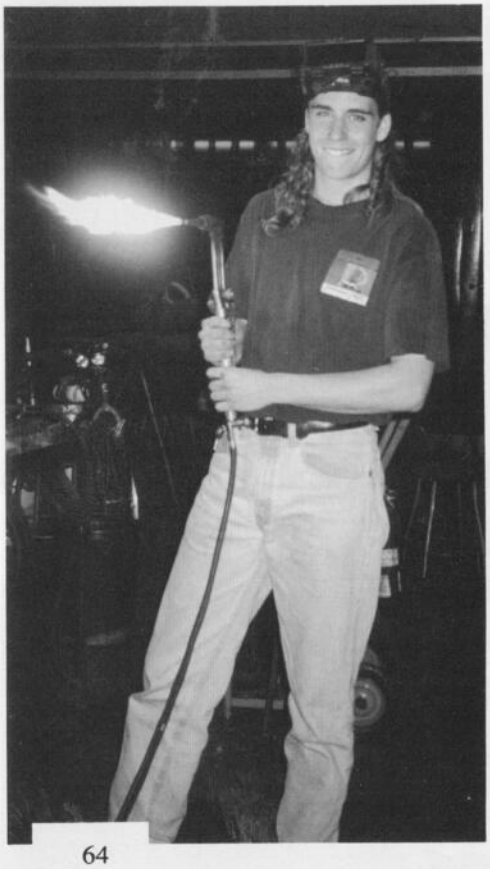
What's Autobody if you can't wear big grey things on your head or play with fire? Shown at the left are the guys who keep us all warm shoveling coal into the furnace.



JEWELRY

As you all know, jewelery-making is a tedious and back-breaking work. Let's all hope that theese students don't cringe at the sight of a pair of earings in the future.

WHAT YOU SAID TO ME

At first, tears like dewdrops glistened in my eyes
And my heart was heavy from the weight of your words

I stared, my eyes lit on fire until your face transformed and you became the child you never got to be

In that candlelit room
My senses are acute to every movement
I can close my eyes and let the images dissolve
I want to join the shadows and dance with the walls

Your words fill my mind like hot steam spilling out of your mouth and coming straight from your soul.

OUTDOORSMAN THERAPY

The mornings soothing yellow hue awakes me, arising to the silence that accompanies isolation
The anticipation of things to come is painful
Stepping out of my early morning trance, I inhale the crisp, moisture rich air that stings my warm face
Stepping forward with my rod in hand, waders on and fly vest full of entomology approximations
A vast expanse of conifers and poplars radiating a life giving glow pulls me forward
I trudge on over trails, constructed and groomed by wandering wildlife, to my prescribed destination
The sound and smell of running water teases my senses and excites my blood with promises of adrenaline filled action, man miles away, promising an undisturbed outdoor experience
Breaking through the thick congestion of the forest, a crystal clear river appears before me
It is lined with maples, alders and cottonwood trees, all filtering the rising sun onto the leaf littered forest floor
The river itself, full of life, supplied with winter melt water, swelling its volume to powerful proportions
Eddies and pools bubble with the hatches of mayflies, caddisflies and stoneflies Brook and rainbow trout can be seen surfacing, engulfing the tiny delicacies by the dozen
After traveling the world in search of the best fishing spots, I hit the jackpot with the slightest chance of hooking a scaly monster
With the care of a watchmaker I tie on a reasonable replication of a stonefly that I crafted earlier that winter, when snow and ice demons prevented angling
Dancing the fly line up and down the banks of the river, the fly land on the water, with no disturbance to the surface tension of the pool
Slight twitches of the fly rod provoke the powerful strike of the mighty bull trout, the explosion of power nearly rips my arms out of their sockets Instantly the heat of battle ensues. The fish peels out line and backing almost to the point where the reel is bare
But the beast tires, and dragging in the heavy mass is the task at hand
Soon the streamlined body, built for speed and survival, is in my sight
Grabbing it by the tail and mouth, I lift it out of the water, unhooking the well implanted fly
Taking a minute to enjoy the beauty of the creature, I lay it back in the water, supporting its weight and aerating its gills to revive its life support system
With a twitch from its tail, smiling I let it swim away to fight again
Myself, one with my surroundings, I can now go back to deal with the pressures of modern society

LIVE FOR TODAY

IF THE PAST IS A FORLORN LOVER LEFT BEHIND, AND THE FUTURE IS THE UNATTAINABLY ATTRACTIVE PURSUIT, THEN IS TODAY THE "NICE" PERSON WHO ALWAYS SEEMS TO BE OVERLOOKED? ALTHOUGH THE PAST WILL ALWAYS HOLD A SPECIAL PLACE IN THE HEART, IT IS THE FUTURE THAT MOTIVATES US TO LOOK BETTER AND WORK HARDER TO GET RECOGNITION. PERHAPS IF MORE TIME WERE INVESTED INTO THE RELATIONSHIP WITH TODAY, TOMORROW WOULD NATURALLY BE MORE ATTRACTIVE, AND TODAY WOULD MAKE A WHOLE NEW PLETHORA OF PRECIOUS MEMORIES.

PLUTO RISING

He kissed her cheek with dead lips slick and clammy cold as a corpse
a swaggering booming transient-man, his pupils pinpricks of dried ink,
a greased lock of yellow hair pasted to his damp forehead.
His skin was a sour white sheen against the vague colorless sky smelling of April, tasting of smoke.

Her bleached paper face
was blank,
her antique dolls eyes collecting dust as she watched her father fade and blend into the very ordinary eleven o'clock sun, leaving for another round of hot Friday nights.

THE CLASS WITH CLASS

Sit back and reminisce about these last two years endure the true fears hear about the studying all the minds muddying while making new buddies and some trends change my friend closets rearrange, there's no clear end to the constant of get up at 7, raise your sweat up sit proud, keep your neck up for a test, as mind check up as you wreck up pages, in stages with the brains to amaze us sure some say we can't, it won't faze us as the year wanes we sense the aroma with more IQ than a Gomer Pyle, all smiles as we grasp the diploma in coma for a moment until we realize that we owe it to that old building we call Vic High look back kid, it can't be defied...

Is This The Poem ?

Is this the poem
in which I write stayed up long,
most of the night.

Or, is this the poem
of that summers day
when I kissed a boy and could not say.

Is this the poem
of the stars in the sky
on which I wished,
when a shooting star went by.

No, this is the poem
the one that mends
the best thing thats ever happened to me,
my true friends.

Is this the poem
in which I tried, to thank everyone for how hard they've tried.

Or, is this the poem
in which I'll read to my three great nephews and my beautiful niece.

Is this the poem
of the years gone by the things I did and the stuff I tried.

Or, is this the poem
in which I cried
on that awful day
when dear Martha died.

No, this is the poem
in which I pray for my great father who is fading away.

Is this the poem
in which I fooled myself, when I tried to be someone else.

Or, is this the poem
in which there is no other;
my four wonderful sisters and my beautiful, caring mother.

NO, THIS IS THE POEM
OF JUST SOME OF MY THOUGHTS.
THE THINGS I, HAVE AND
THE THINGS I'VE LOST.

ART KILLS MAN. ALMOST.

David was an artist, well know in the social circles he traveled in for the passion he had for his work. Like many artists, David's art was inspired by the despair that hung about him, the squalor of his torturous life. In the past, David had welcomed the despair. He relished the nights spent in tormented philosophic discussion with his peers, the days spent in dank cafes sipping wine and repeating his mantra, "Life is meaningless". David had also enjoyed the many ways he could shock people with his disregard for this "meaningless" life. On one occasion, when the pain of life was simply too much to bear, David hurled himself into the traffic of a busy street. His colleagues would not have been so impressed had they known that it was a perfectly calculated risk, a leap aimed to connect with a vehicle slowing down for a red light.

Yet lately David had doubts about behavior such as this, as well as his art. "What am I saying," he would ask himself in private, "when I paint an entire canvas black and call it art?" Thoughts such as these plagued him. He could no longer fathom why he cut himself in fits of self loathing, he no longer knew why life was meaningless, he began to wonder why he must suffer. David was reluctant to share these thoughts with his fellow artists for fear of being rejected by his special clique. Instead, he threw himself into his suffering with renewed vigor. If he could not have quality suffering, he reasoned, he would make up for it with quantity suffering. He broke windows with his bare hands, he set fire to his clothing, he threw his sculptures out of his apartment window. But always the doubts lingered and it became more difficult to transform his hatred of life into art. He could no longer bear it. His facade of despair had ceased to be an illusion, but tormented him constantly. He wanted to be happy and paint butterflies and daisies. He wanted to leave his fellow "artistic sufferers", who painted things black and lived a life of decadence.

And he did. One morning David walked to a department store and traded in his black artist attire in favor of a red T-shirt, a pair of yellow shorts, and a pair of cheap sandals. He walked on the beach that day and ate ice cream. His forearms and calves, unaccustomed to sunlight, became sunburned and their joyful hue delighted him. David enjoyed this new lifestyle and thought that perhaps tomorrow he would call his parents and say hi. He would even stop dying his hair black. After enjoying a spectacular sunset, David walked home, greeting his neighbors merrily. "Happy day," he called out, "happy, happy day!"

Situation is left grasping and puncturing its evil talons at my skin.
The succulant words of life leech their anger and simplicity onto my mind.
The voice replays, and yet I keep on...
Time the continuous wave; sucks me into the undertow.
One day I will rise above and ride the universal current. But nothing can stop my success; only lack of determination and lack of action can deter from the course.
I am my own worst enemy: And to choose between living for the moment and living for the future will be the most glorious feat of all.

DREAMS

Ever had one of those days
Where everything went wrong Life tossed turned Everything terrible
When you blow up at somebody Instantly you regret it.

Ever had a night where you woke up
From a dream screaming, covered in sweat.
Deathly afraid

Ever had one of those nights where you just couldn't sleep because you knew somewhere
OUT
There
You had made someone not sleep as well
Well I have...
Screaming
Sweat dripping
Wide awake
I wish it were really a dream where all I had to do was wake up
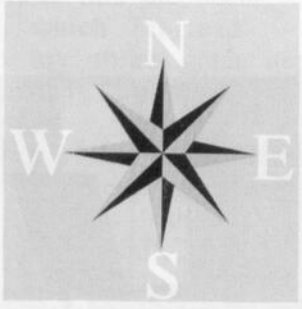
But in reality it isn't
I have to face it
Put one foot in front of the other and walk
Keep on going and never stop

Chris Charles



You are my first love.

I still remember the day when I first laid eyes on you. It was like the whole world stood still. My heart was beating like a drum.

Our eyes met and it was as if we had known each other forever. When our hands touched for the first time, I was surprised at how soft your skin was. It was like touching the soft fur of a baby kitten.

It didn't take us very long to settle into a routine with each other. We learned as we went along how to deal with problems and how to communicate what we wanted.

Lately though, you've been pulling away. I go to hug you and you don't want to be hugged. I go to hold your hand and you won't let me hold it. I'm not worried though. I know that this is normal for any two year old. I know that when you need me you'll come to me and let me hold you and comfort you like only a mommy can.

After all, you are my first love.

SAFETY

Safety is a pair of shoes that are not comfortable to walk in. Safety barges through the door in baggy black pants that are tight in the ass and tells you to start liking acid jazz. Safety has the same patches on her bag as all her friends. Safety doesn't dance when the band plays, only applauds politely when they finish. Safety doesn't listen to anything made before 1996. Safety doesn't listen to anything made after 1969. Safety doesn't talk to the fat kid. Safety doesn't talk to the faggot. Safety doesn't talk to anyone not seen at the show last night. It makes your nights the same and all your stupid songs the same. Safety is in the white bread yo-G what's up pop a cap in your ass, thumpin' bass that blasts out of the Honda civic your parents bought you. Safety curls up in a heated Uplands bedroom with soft blue carpets after panhandling for coffee money outside McDonalds. Safety is hungry from a day of acting like a gangsta straight outta Compton, so it goes home to find leftovers heating up in the microwave. Safety says thanks Mom. Safety stays with you. Safety has you by the throat at 53 stuck in the job you never really wanted but thought you should get. And is my tie on straight? And am I wearing the right shoes?

Safety makes you afraid of your own thoughts.

Safety stays with you.

I'm swimming throught the ocean,
gracefully through the sea,
and somehow I feel that's the way I'm supposed to be

On land I'm just a human and humanly I am with my unsatisfactory features and my small bony hands

I know someday I shall return to the depths of the loving sea but until that time does arise
I guess I'll just have to be me

DARK SETTING IN

The sound that you make when sleep bites your eyes swollen is one of lust or green air.
Silicon bodies line the musty walls of your delicate dreams like perfect little soccer players, suspended legless and brutal.
Your breath smells of cigarettes and the smile that you offered to another girl.
I think you know that I cannot help but forgive you with your amazing paleness and thin smile.
Our unspoken dreams of faceless bodies lie between us like a new pain or my mother.
But still I sit here
as the wandering midnight breeze fondles your still body, and calms me into sleep.

THE WAR TO END ALL WARS
As the rain falls on the moist Earth,
The stench of rotting carcases fills air.
Young men that have come and gone.

In the land of make believe we lived the delirium of our wishes and D-lites. Apon the mushroom we sat with the catepillar and watched gargoyles roam the night. We drank the poison and fed off of strawberris... our lips so softly touched. Believe in the gangster, tommy gun and flapper girl. My memories are long and tears may stain my face. . . I will always love and miss you my dear brother. Rise up and stab them with your plastic Fork!

Finally, were done! But I have to say, without school, I would never have met my closest Buds and had so much fun. Hey you grade 11's you have one more year! Hang in there your almost done. It's also really neat to graduating with people I met in Kindergarten. Everyone has changed so much and it's nice to know that some of us are still friends. I still don't have a clue what I want to do with the rest of my life, but I want to apply at Trinity Western University in Langley. P.S., J.C. Rocks.

96/97 was a memorable year for me, I moved out on my own, got married, and all before I graduated! I've made many friends at Vic High, and I look forward to seeing many of you at university, or at my clinic open for plastic surgery. The teachers in this school are some of the best I've had. I thank them, my best friend, and my wonderful mother for being supportive. Most of all I'll express to my husband Benjamin,"you're my angel" of happiness, 'love always.

My time at Vic High was a great experience. THe teachers were very supportive and treated everybody ason adult, which created a mature and positive learning environment. I would like to thank Mrs. Falls for providing oppertunities for me that made my time enjoyable and successful. My work experience at the Pacific Forestry Center was the highlight of my grade 12 year. I will be remembered for my love of the outdoors and fly fishing every free minute I have. Vic High wasn't part of my plans to grad. Suzanne came to Vic High for grade 12. She is best known for asking " one more question". Her pet peeve is not having enough time for everything that she wants to do in a day. Her best day of school was finishing Chem 12. She plans to go to Camosun next year to start a career in business.

It has finally come to an end. Morning classes, cafeteria food & tests you simply must skip. But of course, it is only the beginning. So many memories & faces- all making me laugh, cry, sing, dance, and laugh some more. Thank you, good luck, farewell and keep i n touch. You mean so much to me. It has been a hell of a 5 years i gripped with some bumps & maybe even a mointain or two. Through it all though we have hopped the hurdles & stayed together... maybe I will miss high school after all.

David Porteous

Well the time has finally come. I never thought it would. When you are a child, you spend years wishing that you would grow up more quickly and you can not wait until you are out of school. When the time finally arrives, you wonder where the time has gone. I'll miss my friends and the thought provoking conversations that we had. I'll also miss the "interesting" parties that we had and the morning afterward. Anyway, It was all good and I should imagine it will get better. Good luck in the future.

It doesn't matter how hard I try, I cant escape this writeup any longer. I have, however, spent a lot of time thinking of what to say, but everything seems so inadequate right now. After thirteen years, you'd think I'd have something better to say.

Thanks to all my friends for being there in every kind of crisis. (1997)

I'll miss lunch in the warmart room, your chips and yummy desserts, our analytical conversations (of five, proportions, our grandmothers) But I know the best is yet to come, and you'll be better than M.S. I'm going on to better things, though I can't imagine how anything can be better.I probably couldn't have made it without my friends; you know who you are. I guess I'll best be remebered for being a nice guy(I hope), an afficianado of special effects, and a huge Star Wars Fan. A final thanks goes out to my exceptional teachers. If anybody wants to see where I end up, look no further than the credits of a movie or tv show with computer generated special effects... I'm going to be there.

I guess I can say Vic High has been a good time. I think it's going to be really weird not having to go to school anymore. To everyone I know, now keep in touch and to everyone else see you in 10. M.A. & C.V., Joe who, and A.C. who about a little culture, and C.T., no more meat please.

So first I would like to say that school and school work wasn't the greatest part of my life, but meeting my friends was. And think about all the years I have ahead of me.I plan to see my life full af parties, money, success and lots of Nang on the breath. After 4 years here, I've finally made it to grad and I have a couple of teachers to thank for that. Mrs. Falls and Mr. Twohig encouraged me to hang in there, and they kept giving me another chance even though I may not have deserved it, and I really appreciate it. Being here has helped me to learn a lot about myself, and it helped me to gain enough self-confidence to get up on stage in the most outragous costume I've ever worn. Thanks, Vic High, I'll miss you!

"I thought that I knew about 'em, thought that they would never do me wrong. Well well they smile in your face when all the time they wanna take your place, them backstabbers, same old scene, that you've seen for so long always wants to be around you, but as jealouse as they come, well don't want you to win that race, 'cause if you don't it's gonna lessen their space, that's when I decide to say...." "Risin', Surprisin', Advisin', Realisin' she's sizin me up. Her bikini small, heals tall. She says she liked the ocean. She showed me a beach, gave me a peach and pulled out the suntan lotion. Now I headed fast, but this girl was faster, she was lookin for a real good time. I said close your eyes, I got a surprise and I ran away with a bottle of wine. I'm going back to Cali, Cali,Cali"

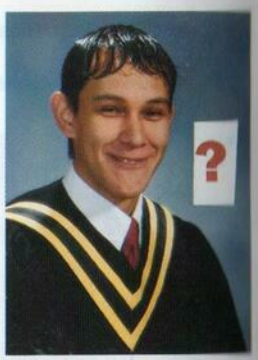
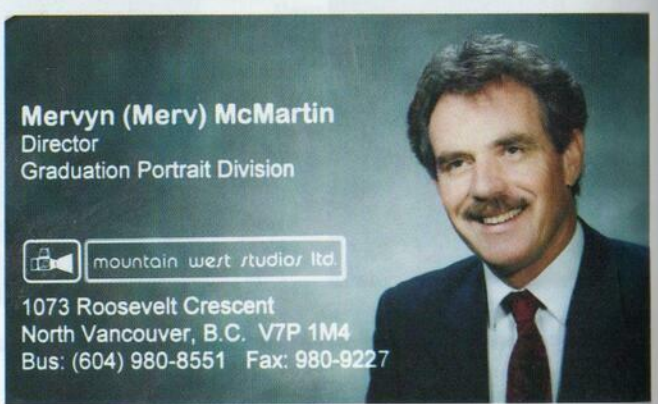
a small tribute to:





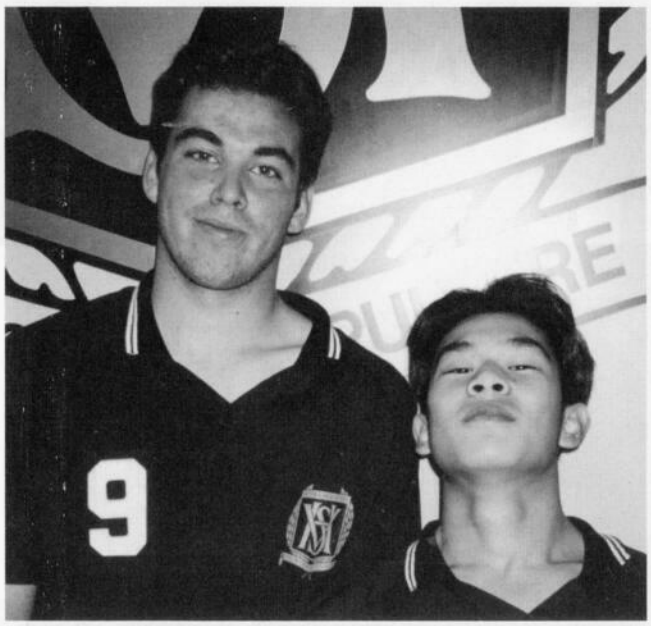
Girls Field Hockey

Our girls field hockey team had a "brilliant" season, with two wins, three ties and one loss. We placed third in the city, earning a berth in the Island Championships at Brentwood College. We played with excellent effort and determination, which placed us seventh overall.

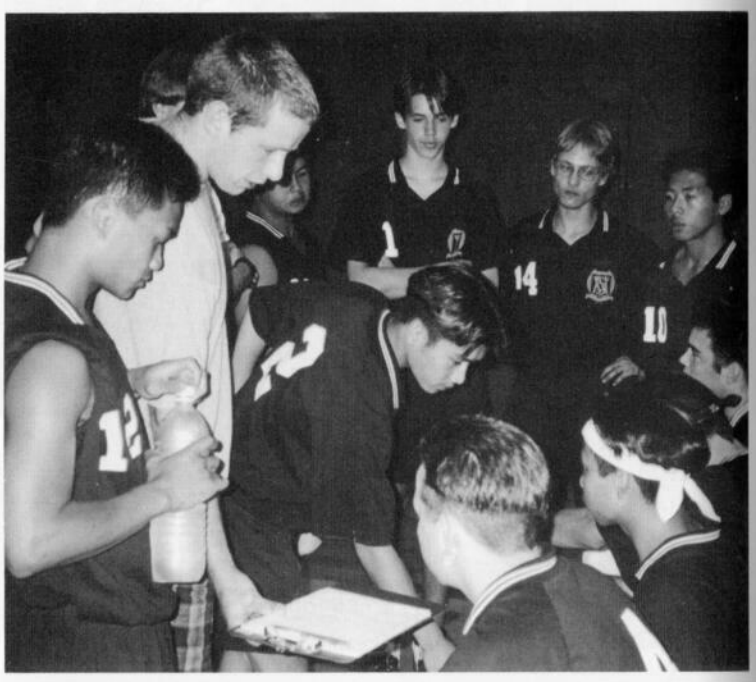
We would like to thank Mr. Jones for coming back from retirement to coach us, and we would also like to thank Mr. Steffanick for giving up his weekend to drive us to Brentwood College.

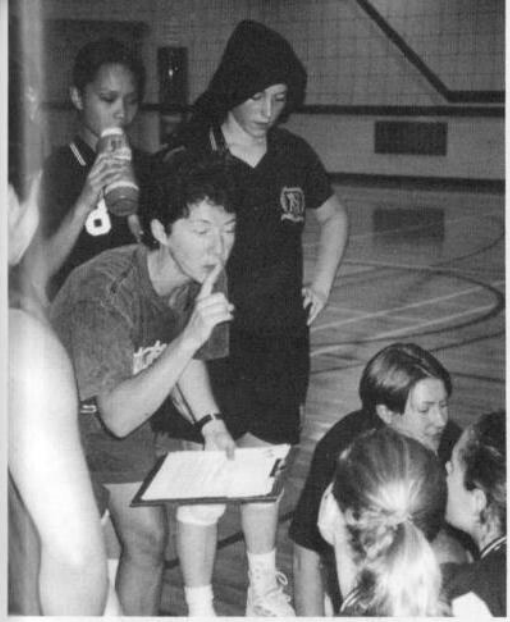
Congratulations, girls, and good luck next year! It was loads of fun! Yeah Tomahawks!

BOYS VOLLEYBALL

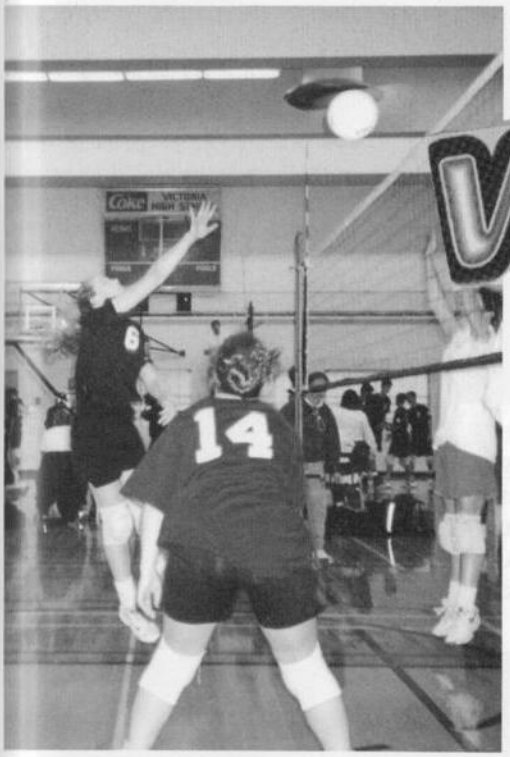


This was the classic "building year" because of a large number of new players. At the end of league play the team had qualified for the City Playoffs. The playoffs turned out to be very close and exciting, finishing with a great 3 game match with Mt. Doug. With the crowd and players in a frenzy, play went on and on. At the end we had lost, but to a standing ovation and it doesn't get better than that. This advanced the team to the Island championships where they finished eighth. The coach of this hardworking team was Dennis Zozula.





Girls Volleyball



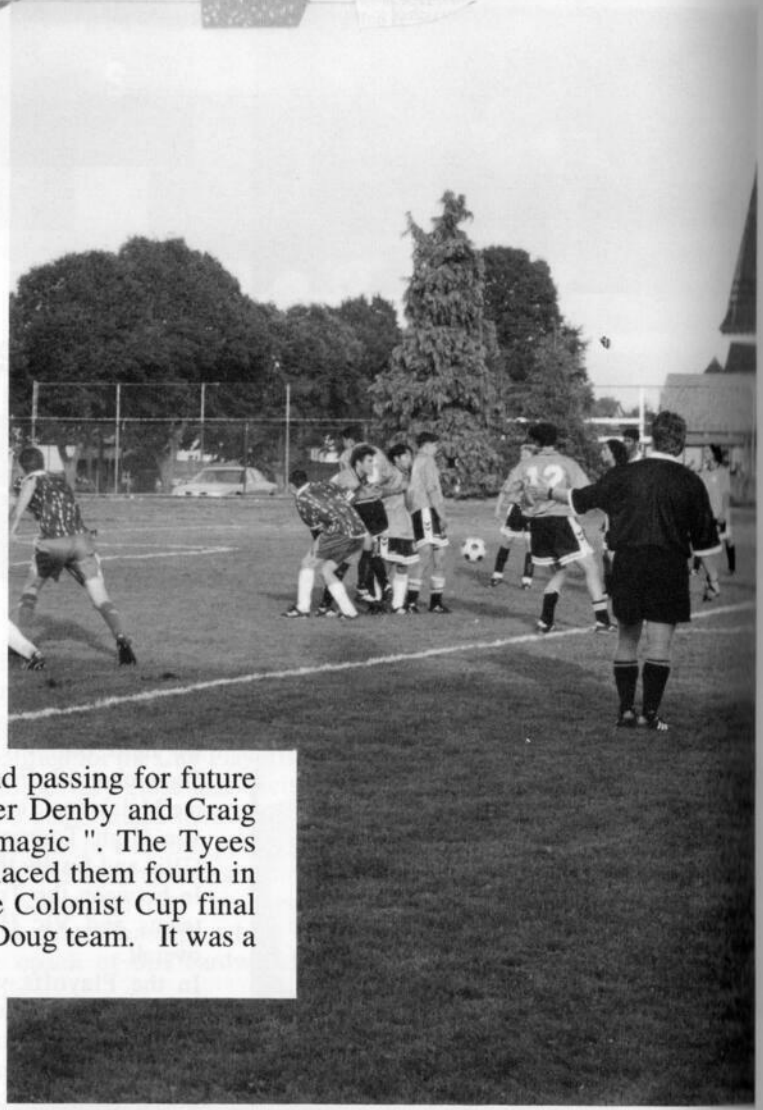
The first day of school meant the first practice of the year and the turn out for this year's Tikis was excellent. We knew we had a competitive team when we held our Vic High Playday Tournament on September 13. From there our exhibition took us to the Malaspina Tournament in Nanaimo, home for the Vic High Tournament, the Police Tournament at UVic and finally the Stelly's Tournament.

In between the Tournaments, our league played 17 teams and Vic High finished an impressive third overall.

In the Playoffs we finished fourth at the Lower Islands held at Mt. Doug and seventh at the Islands held at Vanier secondary in Courtney.

We have great memories of 57 matches played on the court, bus trips, pizza night and the dress up party.

BOYS



This year's Tyees set a new standard of team work and passing for future teams to emulate. In the words of the coaches Peter Denby and Craig Girard, " There were times when they were pure magic ". The Tyees league record of six wins, three ties and two losses placed them fourth in the league. The team narrowly missed playing in the Colonist Cup final when they lost 2-1 in overtime to the highly rated Mt. Doug team. It was a terrific season; Congratulations to all involved.

CROSS COUNTRY

Victoria High's cross country runners Tim Fletcher and James Rempel finished a full season of competition in mid November. James was runner up in both the League and Island championship. He qualified to represent our school at the B.C. High school cross country championships for a second year, and in extremely grueling conditions completed the course for 23rd place in the province. Congratulations on a successful season Tim and James.,

JUST ANOTHER DAY ON THE JOB

Cycling

This year's cycling team was made up of a collection of talented and enthusiastic people. 1996-97 provided an excellent opportunity for all members to display their well practiced riding skills. As well as exceptional personal achievement, the team as a whole excelled in every meet they attended. Good friends and experiences will be remembered by the team as they shared a season of helping and supporting each other. The team was lead by captains Peter Woodland and Simon Jesshope. Congratulations to all the students who participated, as well as their sponsor Mrs. Costain.

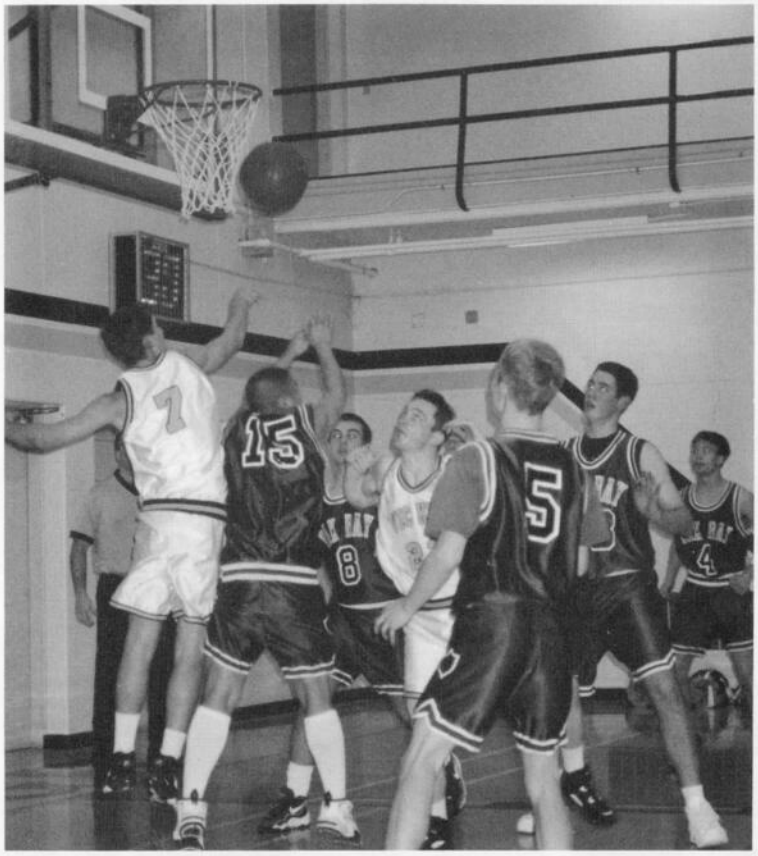
Boys Basketball



The 1996-97 season was very successful for the Totems. This year was vertually a roller coaster ride for the team, with many highs and lows.

Our league was very exciting, and for the first time in 20 years, the team finished first in league with a 11-2 record.

The Totems also had a great exhibition schedule, featuring a third place in Vancouver North- Shore, third in Duncan, fourth in the Victoria Police Tournament, and fifth place in St. Thomas More. The final record for the team was 29-9.

Unfortunately, at the Islands,the team lost a close overtime game to Mount Doug, thus losing the chance to advance to the B.C. Championships.

As usual, the team represented Vic High very well, and brought a great deal of respect to our school.

Girls Basketball

All in all our girls basketball team had a successful season. Yes we would have liked to have had more players but the seven that we finished with worked hard to learn the offence, improved their defence and came away with three league victories.

The season began for us on Nov. 26 when we hosted Parkland, Glenlyon, and Edward Milne for a Playday and we started on a positive note winning two of the three mini-games that we played.

The following players were the 1996-97 Tigers:

Alicia Brazier, Megan Parish, Julie Holden, Michelle Ray, Stephanie Hansen, Holly Hatch, Alyson Foote

GOLF

This years golf team was both highly competitive and spiritly willing. Good times, good friendships, and good golfing were our motto. We had the opportunity to practice our skills at the Gorge Vale and Uplands golf courses before the lower Island play downs at Glen Meadows. Josh Wall, Gilbert Schiller, Lee Andison, Ben Skillings, and Dan Voyer led our team of hopefuls. We performed to the best of our abilities at the lower Island play downs but fell short of achieving our goal of a birth at the provincial level. We pride ourselves on our etiquette and fellowship. Congratulations to all the students who tried out for this years team and to our sponsor Robin Steffanick for his continuous gift of golf balls and encouragement for all.

Tennis

The Vic High tennis team was a well put together and talented team. With the help of their sponsor, Mr. Kelpin, the overall experience was beneficial to all. Players had the chance to excel in different areas and use their competitive spirit. This year's team consisted of a group of determined and motivated students, which resulted in a positive and memorable time had by all. Team members included Jen Harvey, Gilbert Schiller, Lee Andison, Ben Skillings, Kirsten Hagen, Jackie Troy, Jenn Jenson and many more. Congratulations to all the players for their efforts and achievements.
